22 - 24 February 1982

1. CIA sponsored a conference on counterterrorism which was held in Frankfurt, Germany from 22 - 24 February 82 with attendees from CIA, U.S. Army Intelligence elements in Europe, the Joint Special Operations command (JSOC) and the Department of State. On the CIA side, Chiefs of Station and senior officers [redacted] attended along with senior representatives of CIA/DDO and DDI management from Headquarters. The U.S. Army was represented on the first day by elements of USAREUR, EUCOM and V Corps and by JSOC.

2. The first day was an open session which began with briefings by the Acting Director of the Department of State's Office for Combatting Terrorism and by a team from JSOC. The Director of CIA/DDI's Center for International Terrorism briefed on his office's capabilities for research and analysis of the terrorist scene. DDO representatives briefed on those indigenous European terrorist groups (e.g. Red Brigades and Red Army Faction) and the more international terrorist organizations (e.g. Palestinians and Armenians) which threaten U.S. lives and installations in Europe. There was also general discussion on the reporting and dissemination of terrorist threat information.

3. The second and third days were reserved for CIA/DDO personnel and consisted of in-house discussions on [redacted]

CIA's responsibilities for improving the reporting, processing and dissemination of threat information.

4. Overall, the conference reiterated the high priority assigned by this administration to counterterrorism efforts, provided guidance to further these efforts and clarified several problem areas for CIA officers in attendance. We believe the first day's open session was useful to CIA officers, U.S. Army representatives and State personnel alike in delineating the threat and discussing means to resolve it. (Attached is cable [redacted] outlining the results of the Conference.)
